

Expect Berlin Talks Timetable Is Not Set For Meeting

France and US Differ On Approach To Crisis Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the major Western powers all expect negotiations with Russia over Berlin but at this point have no timetable for such an East-West meeting.

After reporting personally to President Kennedy on the week-long consultations in Europe from which he returned Thursday night, Rusk told newsmen he had found "a high degree of unity among the Western Allies on the Berlin problem."

He minimized reports that France and the United States differ on the timing of any approach to the Soviets toward an East-West conference aimed at a peaceful solution of that crisis.

European reports had it that the United States proposes that the West take an early initiative while France believes no move toward negotiations should be made for some time.

Rusk said this is a matter "on which the gap may be more apparent than real."

He added: "We all understand that negotiations will occur."

Rusk was reported encouraging not only over the signs of policy unity but over prospects of a military buildup by other NATO nations paralleling that ordered by Kennedy in this country.

Kennedy and Rusk, however, were reported increasingly concerned over what they consider the rigid, threatening attitude being displayed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev in public statements and private meetings with Western diplomats and visitors.

There is a growing conviction that Khrushchev's present position offers no real hope of successful negotiations, in spite of his demand that the West seek a peaceful settlement of the Berlin dispute he has created.

Flying back from Paris, Rusk brought with him Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. envoy to Moscow, to join in the planning sessions.

Nuts, Bolts Costs Down $38 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office figures it saved the taxpayers at least $38 million last year by keeping an eagle eye on the cost of such things as nuts and bolts and airplane engines, to say nothing of transportation charges.

That was the amount of refunds and collections paid into the Treasury by government contractors during the fiscal year ended June 30 as a result of GAO prying into the fine print and background of contracts. The GAO is an independent arm of Congress.

The $38 million does not include untold millions in economies that a GAO spokesman said, resulted from the auditing agency's activities in persuading government contracting officials to be more careful with taxpayers' dollars.

For example, the GAO claims the government saved at least $10 million last year when defense officials decided to utilize stocks on hand before contracting for new supplies of equipment.

Several GAO reports to Congress cited backlogs of military supplies owned by one service at a time identical items were being purchased by another service.

During the past year, the GAO examined transportation payment of $1.8 billion. It sent out 88,580 notices to carriers claiming overcharges of $25.8 million, of which $21.5 million was refunded to the government.

ATTEMPTED HIJACKING LEADS TO CRASH LANDING — This is the Aerovias Q 47 airliner which crash landed south of Havana after an attempted hijacking of the Cuban plane. The landing gear and propellers were smashed. The pilot and two others died in a gunfight that erupted on board. The co-pilot landed the plane in a sugar cane field. Enemies of Fidel Castro attempted the hijacking. (AP Wirephoto.)

Border Patrol Job Details Kept Secret

Step Up Efforts To End Hijacking Of US Airliners

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy tapped a well-trained energetic bunch with pride in its work—the Border Patrol—in efforts to stop plane hijacking.

The patrol itself wasn't giving any details about its new assignment, announced Thursday by the President, to put border patrolmen aboard some planes.

One of its men, Leonard Gilman happened to be a passenger on the plane hijacked at El Paso last week. Gilman ended the incident with a wallop to the jaw of one of the hijackers.

"I'm a trained officer," Gilman explained later in brushing aside any idea of his being a hero.

The Border Patrol has about 1,500 men with the principal duty of guarding the borders of the United States against illegal entry of persons.

Border patrolmen wear uniforms of khaki-green trousers and shirt and a Sam Brown belt with holster and gun.

They use their feet, horses, jeeps, boats and airplanes—some are pilots—to carry out their duties. They're crack shots, too.

The Border Patrol was established in 1924 under the old Bureau of Immigration in the Department of Labor. In the regrouping of government agencies in 1940, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, including the border patrol, was transferred to the Department of Justice.

As far back as 1904 mounted inspectors patrolled the Mexican border in an effort to check the smuggling of Chinese into the United States.

Lt. Gen. J. M. Swing, U.S. Army (Ret.) is the service head. Under him is James F. Greene, a long-time border patrolman, whom the border patrolmen call their national chief.

All positions in the border patrol are subject to civil service rules and regulations.

Applicants must be at least 21, 5 feet 8, weigh at least 140 and be in good physical condition.

They must take a written test lasting about 3½ hours and then appear for an oral interview.

From Jefferson City

Train Kills Man Near Here Today

A man identified from papers in his billfold as Ralph S. Rackers, 42, Jefferson City, was fatally injured about 6:20 a.m. Friday when struck by West-bound Missouri Pacific freight train No. 93 approximately five miles west of Sedalia.

F. R. Copeland, 57, engineer of the train, said the man was walking west about the center of the tracks. Copeland told Trooper William Southwick and Deputy Sheriff Jack Couts that the train was traveling about 45 miles an hour going up grade when the engine struck the man.

"We were coming around the curve and whistled for the crossing. As we came around the curve and about ten or 12 poles back I saw the man walking on the ties. He was easily seen because of a red shirt he was wearing. I began whistling continuously trying to attract his attention, but he kept walking westward and never looked back. I applied the emergency brakes on the train, but it was too late to avoid striking him," Copeland said.

Officers pointed out he might have been deaf, but on the other hand the rumbling of the two-unit freight engine on the tracks should have been enough to warn him a train was approaching.

The point of impact was reported as being at milepost 193, post 33. It was approximately three-tenths of a mile west of the gravel road crossing.

The ticket office in Sedalia was notified of the accident by the train crew by radio and Ewing's ambulance was dispatched to the scene. The man was rushed to Sedalia and taken to the Bothwell Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Tom Mason, former Sedalian, was conductor of the train with E. Gangwish, fireman, E. E. Kunze, J. W. Patterson and S. H. Baysinger, brakemen, all from Jefferson City.

The man, according to an investigation, was knocked to the left of the train, and approximately 78 feet west of the point of impact, the body rolled alongside the roadbed.

The body was removed from the hospital and taken to the Ewing Funeral Home.

The man carried a billfold in which he had numerous papers, one a copy of his honorable discharge from the U. S. Army Air Force. It showed the man was born in Cole County, Feb. 19, 1919. He participated in campaigns in North France, Normandy, Rhineland, Ardennes and Central Europe, was awarded six bronze stars, and the Distinguished Unit Citation with an Oak Leaf Cluster.

The latest address in Jefferson City found among his papers was 408 Russell Street.

Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, was notified and viewed the body at the hospital. An inquest will not be held.

Death was attributed to a severe fracture of the skull.

Mr. Rackers was born at Jefferson City. (Please turn to page 5 column 6)

Safety Plans Revealed By Some Airlines

Pilot Compartment Doors To Be Barred From the Inside

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT Executive Editor, Dallas Times Herald (Copyright, 1961)

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Two major airlines, and probably more, have laid down rigid precautionary measures against possible hijacking in the sky, the Dallas Times Herald has learned.

Grave concern over the safety of passengers, crew and equipment has brought stern safety rules into flight planning the past few days.

The incredible in-flight kidnapping of American airliners has the airlines outraged. But none want to arm their crews.

Top executives of the major airlines have suggested certain safety measures to members of the Congress now hastily writing a bill to insure maximum safety against crazed hijackers.

Most of the airlines with flights which could conceivably reach Cuba from the point of origin had instituted rules even before President Kennedy's announcement that civilian-dressed border patrolmen would ride strategic flights. Also, the airlines had started other precautionary measures decreed by the Federal Aviation Agency Thursday.

Food, coffee and milk will be placed in the pilot's compartment before take-off. No persons, from stewardess to president of the airline, will be permitted to enter the compartment during take-off, flight, or landing.

Pilot compartment doors will be barred from the inside. Some airlines will use old-fashioned, two-by-four wooden bars, or pieces of steel or metal, firmly secured in braces on either side of the door.

No arms of any kind will be permitted in the airplane. Crew members will not be armed with firearms of any description. Some, however, will permit the carrying of concealed blackjacks for striking hijackers.

Special precautions have been (Please turn to page 5 column 6)

Nikita Ready to Negotiate For Settlement On Germany

Demanded By Khrushchev

Reds Preparing German Treaty

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany announced today that negotiations already are under way in Communist capitals for the German peace treaty demanded by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Sterner measures were also promised to halt the tide of refugees through West Berlin.

The announcements were made to a special session of East Germany's Parliament in East Berlin by Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz and Deputy Premier Willy Stoph.

Parliament approved a resolution endorsing all measures already taken to stop the flight of refugees. The vote was unanimous, as always.

The resolution also welcomed the recent statement of the Communist Warsaw Pact countries calling for a peace treaty without delay. But it added nothing about negotiating it.

Bolz said the foreign ministers of the Soviet bloc will meet late in the fall—exactly when or where he did not say.

Khrushchev has demanded that peace treaties be signed with East and West Germany. Since the West is firmly against signing a treaty with anything but a reunited Germany, it appeared the projected conference would draw up a treaty, the West would reject it and then Khrushchev would go ahead and sign it before the end of the year, as promised.

As part of the campaign against the West on Berlin, Khrushchev named Marshal Ivan S. Konev, former military commander of the Warsaw Pact, to command Soviet forces drawn up against the West in Germany.

The Communist press made no fuss about the appointment. Neues Deutschland, the official party organ, carried the one-sentence report in bold type, on page one, under a small headline.

Bolz told Parliament Berlin would remain a free city—but under Communist definition this would mean withdrawal of Western garrisons posted against such Communist devices as "spontaneous demonstrations."

With Berlin in Communist hands, East Germany would be virtually sealed off from the West and its people would be unable to flee.

Stoph warned that new measures might be taken to stop the refugee flow, now approaching 150,000 for this year, and he hinted they might be taken even before a peace treaty is signed.

Challenge On Share Of Money

Progress Program Concerns Smaller Latin Countries

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Latin America's smaller nations today were challenging their bigger neighbors to make sure they get their share of President Kennedy's $20-billion Alliance for Progress aid program.

The smaller nations, after winning one victory Thursday, appeared to have enough votes to insure creation of the controversial commission of "seven wise men" to coordinate national development plans.

Uruguay, smallest country in South America, is leading the campaign, based on evident fears that otherwise the big nations will reap most of the benefits from the U.S. drive to bolster Latin America against the twin threats of communism and Castroism.

The United States proposed creation of the commission when the conference began but pulled back when Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Chile and Peru demanded that it be demoted to an advisory group.

The larger nations, which already have their own development programs, want to deal directly with the United States and the various lending agencies instead of going through an over-all hemispheric board.

Argentina and Brazil reportedly are urging the United States to launch an immediate crash program of aid to the weaker nations on an emergency basis.

Says War Spells Death To Hundreds of Millions

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev, reiterating he is ready to negotiate, today welcomed President Kennedy's expression of hope for a peaceful solution in Germany. "We believe common sense will win," he said.

But in almost the same breath he insisted that the United States respect the Soviet Union as a great power "not afraid of any threats." And in a speech marked by shouting and arm waving, he declared hundreds of millions will die if a new war is set off.

He said Western leaders who claim that only seven million will die are talking nonsense.

He made the declaration at a "friendly rally" in the Kremlin for Romanian Communist party boss Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej who has been visiting the Soviet Union since July 31.

Khrushchev said talk about low casualty figures is imperialist propaganda to prevent the Soviet Union from taking action on his intention of signing a peace treaty with East Germany.

"We shall, of course," Khrushchev said, "sign a peace treaty with Germany."

He shouted that "lies and shouts" on the part of the West will not stop the Soviet Union. For example, he said, the roars of the British lion no longer frighten anyone.

The imperialists, he said, have "short hands"—a Russian expression for somebody who has very little power.

Khrushchev said the laws of war are "terribly cruel" and then mentioned the recent visit to the Soviet Union by Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy. He said he asked Fanfani where the North Atlantic Treaty Organization rocket bases were located in Italy and, according to Khrushchev, got the reply that they were located in orange orchards.

Khrushchev said the Soviet people like Italian oranges but that if war came and Italy is "pushed" against the Soviet Union, he would not hesitate to send rockets raining on the orange orchards of Italy.

He said the same thing would happen to other small countries that harbor NATO bases, such as Greece and Norway.

The Soviet premier departed from his notes and launched into a table-thumping display of disdain and ridicule directed at the United States.

President Kennedy, he said, is having a difficult time reassessing his nation's values.

"There, a person may be a beggar or king as he chooses," he said.

Khrushchev said the United States is "accustomed to have people speak to them with downcast eyes—fastened on their shoes or trousers."

He said this was because the Americans had gotten used to thinking of themselves as the most powerful nation on earth.

"But we too are a powerful country," Khrushchev continued and demanded respect from the United States for "his majesty, the working class."

Parachute Landing By Titov

Says He Chose To 'Bail Out' Of Space Capsule

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov said today he was ejected from his space ship at the end of his epic 25-hour orbital flight and parachuted to earth.

The second Soviet spaceman told a jammed news conference his spaceship Vostok II came down separately by parachute "but if the need had arisen, I could have landed it myself."

Titov said there were two landing systems available—either to remain in the space ship and parachute down with it or to descend separately. He said he had permission to use either system.

"I felt well and decided to test the second landing system," he said.

The ship landed safely nearby, he added.

The space flier said he experienced no ill effects—from the acceleration forces, noise and vibration of the takeoff, from the prolonged weightlessness or from the transition from weightlessness near the end of his 17 trips around the globe.

Titov said after landing neither he nor medical experts could detect any changes in his physical organism.

The self-assured young major reported one variation from normal. He said he wasn't hungry for his first two meals although he ate them on schedule.

"Frankly speaking I had no particular appetite," the 26-year-old cosmonaut said. "This was probably due to the sustained weightlessness and excitement."

Titov spoke at a news conference held at Moscow University for more than 1,500 Soviet and foreign newsmen, scientists and diplomats.

Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet academy of sciences, introduced the Soviet Union's new space hero and said his 25-hour flight had produced a wealth of scientific information that will be published and shared with scientists all over the world.

Harmony Baptists Conduct Annual Association Meet

Harmony Baptists had their 81st annual association meeting Aug. 8-9. The day sessions were held at the Emmett Avenue Church and the one night session was at the First Baptist Church. There were 273 messengers and visitors registered during the two day meeting. The reports showed that Harmony Baptists are moving forward in their work. They showed a decisive gain in their Sunday school work. Probably the greatest gain was registered in the amount of money given for all purposes of the churches in the association.

There were many outstanding messages brought during the sessions challenging Harmony Baptists to great spiritual attainments and supporting moral righteousness.

Rev. J. R. Wallace, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was the moderator for 1960-1961. Rev. Charles W. Halbrook, pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church, was elected to serve as moderator for 1961-62. Rev. Sherman D. Bridgman is superintendent of missions.

The session was concluded by Rev. Roland P. Cooper, of the Calvary Baptist Church, who brought a stirring message challenging the group to care and to cooperate in getting the message of Christ out to all men everywhere.

Arrangement Made Should JFK Be Ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the time ever comes, one Kennedy or another apparently is going to have a hand in deciding if President Kennedy is unable to carry on and should give up his office temporarily.

By terms of an agreement between Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson announced Thursday, the President will decide—if he is able to—that he can't carry out his duties and ask Johnson to take over until he recovers.

But if he should be stricken to the point where he couldn't advise Johnson, the vice president has agreed to consult with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and other Cabinet members before he assumes the top job. The attorney general is the president's brother.

In any event, the chief executive would make the decision on when he would resume the active presidency.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the consultation with Robert Kennedy and Cabinet members was not binding on Johnson, since some disaster might make it impossible for the vice president to hold such talks.

Some politicians thought there was little legally binding about the gentleman's agreement between the chief executive and the No. 2 man in the government. They said the question of whether a vice president could take over as president and then step down again has never been settled.

The Kennedy-Johnson agreement, made before their inaugurations, followed closely a similar agreement between former Vice President Richard M. Nixon on March 3, 1958.

Salinger said it was not written or signed as an official document but remained an oral agreement. Nixon furnished Johnson plenty of precedent for consulting with the attorney general in deciding whether the president was incapacitated.

In Eisenhower's heart attack and two other serious illnesses, Nixon sought and followed advice from his friend, William P. Rogers, who began as an assistant attorney general and then moved up to the Cabinet.

Salinger said that Atty. Gen. Kennedy had completed a study of the situation last week, preparing a lengthy opinion supporting the view of "the great majority of constitutional scholars" that the arrangement is legal.

A White House spokesman said that in the past, vice presidents had hesitated to take over when chief executives were stricken. "Obviously," he said, "this is a risk which cannot be taken in these times, and it is for that reason that President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson have agreed to follow the precedent established by the past administration."

Dr. W. Francis English, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Missouri, was the speaker.

Jimmy Durante Show Pleases FCC Chairman

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — When comedian Jimmy Durante made a few hopeful references to what Federal Communications Commission Chairman Newton N. Minow might think of the Durante television special on Wednesday night, he had a special audience.

For his information, Minow thought the show was fine. The FCC chairman, whose remarks on the "vast wasteland" of television entertainment upset the industry recently, said of the Durante special: "A real delight in every way—a real uplift in the summer doldrums."

Minow saw the show while visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Minow.

We've had parts for our '62 model for years.

Yes. Our '62. Next year's Volkswagen. Doesn't it stand to reason? VW makes only the one basic truck and has been perfecting it for the past 12 years. Part by part. Today practically every part is improved. Yet most fit any year Volkswagen you have. The number of parts taken from Volkswagen production as spares would seem excessive to some manufacturers. But VW service is as much a part of the idea as the VW price or the VW mileage.

We carry spares we almost never get calls for. Axles. Wheels. Even dip sticks. As a rule, this makes Volkswagen repairs much faster than other makes. (Other dealers simply can't afford the spares for every year and model that we carry for just one truck.) This has become very important to people with '51 and '52 VWs. They can still get a rear quarter panel, a gas pump or a fan belt in no time. VW is still making them for those years. (And those years look like our '62, too.)

Christianity's 'Ivory Tower'

One of the most challenging statements concerning Christianity ever made was that in a recent address by Gov. Frank Morrison of Nebraska at a meeting of the Nebraska Council of Churches legislative seminar in Lincoln.

Remarking that through history "those people who have been subjected to Christianity have attained a high level of civilization," he pointed out that at the same time "they have shown more cruelty and misunderstanding than any other people in the history of the human race."

The governor's statement might find commentary in a recent statement by James Reston of the New York Times to the effect that the present century has seen more war and violence than any other time since the twelfth century. It might have been added that the wars have been chiefly waged by professedly Christian nations.

It is this that gave point to Morrison's demand: "Take Jesus out of the ivory tower of ecclesiasticism and put His ethics into an everyday yardstick for relationships with fellowmen."

"Are you willing," he asked, "to devote yourselves to the precept of loving God with all your mind, heart and soul, and your neighbor as yourself, regardless of religion, color or nationality?"

Surely it is a challenge to all who believe in the teachings of Jesus, the "Prince of Peace," that Christianity has to so tragic an extent been disregarded and betrayed.

Friction and Smouldering Tempers

(Editor's Note — While Drew Pearson is reporting from Berlin his associate, Jack Anderson is writing alternate columns from Washington.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The President's haughty, handsome military adviser, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, paid a courtesy call upon Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara the other day. However, the smoke Taylor left behind didn't come from a peace pipe, but from McNamara's smouldering temper.

The military chiefs share McNamara's dislike for Taylor whose attempts to placate them seem only to rub them the wrong way and cause more friction.

Reason for their irritation: Taylor, after promising to help them gain the President's ear, has tried to shut them out instead.

He has tried to route all military channels through his office, so he can become the President's sole source of military information. He has called upon the Pentagon for briefings, has demanded to see policy papers.

"I've got to know about this, so I can brief the President," has become his most familiar refrain.

This is hardly calculated to please McNamara who regards Taylor as a threat to his authority. The snub-nosed Secretary is too polite and proper to say anything against Taylor. But the hair on the back of his neck perceptibly bristles at the mention of Taylor's name.

McNamara invited in a few favorite reporters the other day for a background briefing. It was a closed-door, shades-drawn affair, and the newsmen were sworn not to breathe McNamara's name.

Everything that was said, however, was secretly recorded. The transcript has been seen by this column which is under no secrecy obligation.

Twice, McNamara slammed his hand on the table and repeated that the new flexible defense policy was not Taylor's work.

"I want to make it clearly understood," he snapped, "that this doesn't represent Maxwell Taylor's plan."

Asked whether Taylor might have influenced the plan, the Secretary retorted sourly: "We have all read his book, but that was some time ago. The plan is my own, worked out in conjunction with . . . the joint chiefs of staff."

A startling number of Generals and Admirals are even more outspoken about Taylor. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, who was almost eased out as chairman of the joint chiefs to make way for Taylor, is still burning over the incident. To avoid a political explosion, Kennedy decided not to replace Lemnitzer, but the General is now muttering about resigning.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, the retired Navy chief, also roars with rage over Taylor. The Admiral fancied himself as White House military adviser, used to hover around President Kennedy waiting for the nod.

Now Burke has joined the circle of retired military chiefs whose favorite subject, when they get together in the Army-Navy Club, is grumping about Taylor.

Mamie's Train Trip

Luxury Limited — Mamie Eisenhower, though shorn of her White House privileges, still manages to travel in style. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad recently invited her and her sister, Mrs. Gordon Moore, to ride to Chicago and back in a plush private car with chef and porter. Technically, the car was assigned to B & O official Charles Van Horn. But by an amazing coincidence, it happened to wait in Chicago (end of the B & O line) until the former first lady completed a trip to Denver and was ready to return. To rent a private railway car, government regulation requires the purchase of at least 25 first-class fares. Yet Mamie and her sister paid for only two fares. Explained Van Horn to this column: the car was charged to "company business."

Letter From Khrushchev

Soviet spaceman Yuri Gagarin, during his stopover last week in Canada, delivered a personal letter from Premier Khrushchev to American industrialist Cyrus Eaton. The Kremlin Czar wrote piously that he wants Soviet scientists to contribute to peace, that differences between nations can be settled by negotiation if the leaders will only sit down to the task. Later, Gagarin and Eaton drove together past a statue of Canadian astronomer Simon Newcomb (1835-1909). The Russian not only recognized Newcomb but quoted from his theories on the moon's motion. Chuckling, Gagarin added that the great astronomer made one error: he claimed it would be "impossible for men to fly."

Cocktails For Postmen

Contracts and Cocktails—Military inspectors are quietly checking on officers who have bought stock in companies with which they do business. One case: The Air Force's postal chief, Lt. Col. James Adcock, has purchased stock in the airlines that fly the mail. But the amounts have been small, and Adcock has no direct influence over airmail contracts. Out of the investigation, however, has come an interesting sidelight: Both Trans World and Seaboard World Airlines have tossed fancy cocktail parties recently for postal authorities. It may be only a coincidence that their postal business has increased.

Whisper In The Corridor

West Germany's interzonal trade chief, Dr. Kurt Leopold, took a confidential walk down a corridor the other day with his East German counterpart, Herr Behrendt. The Communist official confided that East Germany will not interfere with West German civilian traffic to Berlin. However, he warned that his government may harass allied military traffic after the Russian-East German peace pact is signed. In return for free access to Berlin, Leopold gave his whispered assurance that food shipments would not be stopped to hungry East Germany.

The President-Elect of Rotary International is Nitish Laharry of Calcutta, India. He is the first non-white to head this world-wide organization. Mr. Laharry is a sixty-seven year old grandfather and for twenty-five years was managing director for South Asia of the Columbia Features Corporation of Los Angeles.

As President-elect, Mr. Laharry will have a host of duties this year at headquarters in Evanston, Illinois. He believes staunchly in world fellowship as a path to understanding and he said recently in an interview:

"We have to know each other in our homes; we have to show each other what we believe in and why; we have to respect one another in every possible way."

That is the philosophy of Rotary from the top to the local level all over the world.

Way of Life Gone

The day of the sow, the cow and the hen is gone from many farms.

In the vast farm areas of some parts of the midwest, the concentration is upon grain, soybeans, sugar beets, corn and hay. One can drive for miles and not see a chicken, a cow or a pig.

The farms are operated by tenant farmers for owners who live in the towns and cities. Many a farmer who operates his own farm during the growing and harvesting season, moves into town in the winter, or goes to Florida or California.

All of that is a nice way of life for the persons concerned, but the farm, as a way of life, isn't what it used to be in those areas of expedient change.

Johnson Would Take Over---But When?

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Twice now American presidents and their vice presidents — because Congress wouldn't do anything on it—have had to agree between themselves on how a vice president takes over for a disabled president.

President Kennedy said Thursday he and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson have made such an agreement. It turned out to be, word for word, the same as former President Dwight D. Eisenhower made with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon on March 3, 1958.

There's a big hole in it but it's the kind of hole which may never have to be filled.

The Constitution says that, in case of a president's inability to discharge his powers and duties: the vice president will take over. But it doesn't say what an inability is or who decides when inability exists and when it ends.

There has been argument over this constitutional clause since the Constitution was put together. But Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955 alerted him and the country to the need for some clarification—just in case.

His two attorneys general—first Herbert Brownell and then William P. Rogers—with the help of their Justice Department lawyers examined the problem and proposed to Congress, in 1956 and 1957, that it act on a constitutional amendment. It didn't.

So Eisenhower, with the help of Rogers and the best advice the latter could get, made an agreement with Nixon—an agreement now duplicated by Kennedy and Johnson with the help of the President's brother, Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Robert Kennedy sees eye-to-eye with Rogers on the wording of the agreement and the constitutional thinking behind it. A lot of questions can be raised about it.

But the two attorneys general thought they had reached a reasonable solution. It should be noted these two agreements applied only to the four men involved. No future president or vice president is bound by them.

They will be free to make any other agreements they wish, or none. But since Kennedy and Johnson thought the Eisenhower-Nixon arrangement was good for them, their successors in the White House are likely to do the same until, or unless, Congress finally decides to act. That's unlikely.

The agreement says:
1. If the president becomes unable to carry out his duties he will—if he's able to—notify the vice president who will then act as president until the president's disability ends.

Note: This doesn't say the vice president becomes president during a period of presidential disability but only acts as president.

2. If the disabled president for some reason can't tell the vice president to take over for him temporarily, the vice president will consult with people he considers "appropriate" about taking over the presidency until the disability ends.

The ground rules seem pretty narrow here for Johnson. If Kennedy became too disabled to tell Johnson to take over for him, it's a sure bet the vice president would not make a move without consulting Kennedy's brother, the attorney general.

3. The president will decide when his disability ends and resume his duties.

All three of these arrangements raise questions but not more than the third in which a disabled president decides when he is no longer disabled. Suppose those around him still think he's too disabled to run the country. What then?

When We Must Say It, Then We Must Mean It

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Do you want Jimmy to put his blocks away? Then say, "Let's see if the big lumberman can lift those heavy logs into their box."

Do you want Fran to leave her sandbox to come in to lunch? O.K. Say, "Let's skip over to the back door together."

Is it hard to get Billy into his pajamas at bedtime? For him the incantation is, "I'll close my eyes and see if you're ready for bed by the time I count 10." If this doesn't work, you are advised to try saying, "Get into your pajamas, and see what a big surprise I've got for you."

These are typical discipline suggestions made in a book by a well-known child development expert.

Not one will work unless we feel the companionship we are expressing. Once, maybe, and that will be it. If we do not genuinely enjoy our skipping together with Fran, our second offer of it will elicit from her, not obedience, but the quick look that registers our phony friendliness.

If we are not truly involved in that bedtime game of counting 10, we'll open our calculating eyes to find Billy gone, hiding himself from us behind the locked bathroom door.

Yet, this expert never so much as mentions the importance of honest feeling behind these suggested formulas.

So, the young parents who read her book will use them without honest feeling. When they fail to produce, the young parents will blame, not the expert's advice, but themselves. And they will resent Jimmy as a very peculiar child for kicking his blocks into chaos instead of falling for the "lumberman" trick.

Tricks are the one thing we cannot afford in the discipline of children.

If we don't truly want to skip into the house for lunch with Fran, let's not pretend we do. Let's settle for respect for our wish to feed her. If we have that, we don't need tricks. We just

It's one of those iffy questions. Government lawyers say they prefer to rely on the value language of No. 3 at the present and then try to deal with particular facts and circumstances as they might arise.

While Brownell and Rogers asked Congress in vain for a constitutional amendment to clear up the whole business once for all, House Speaker Sam Rayburn thought a simple congressional act might do.

Government lawyers disagreed. They said such an act would be challenged in the courts as unconstitutional. But the Kennedy-Johnson agreement is neither an act of Congress nor a constitutional amendment.

Therefore might not anything Johnson did, while acting as president for a disabled Kennedy, be challenged in court, too? For instance: if Johnson signed a bill which meant a loss of millions of dollars to someone.

But that's hypothetical at this point. Rogers and Robert Kennedy feel they have done their research and that the courts would uphold as constitutional the agreement they worked out.

pick up our small girl in our arms and say, "O.K., my poppet. It's time for lunch."

If there is one overwhelming anger in young adults I know, it's anger at tricky parents, or at pretenses of interest that were not felt. It's at companionable talk without companionable feeling.

The neighbor's dog delights in chasing the cat next door and one day the little girl and her dog came along and the woman next door made a wild dash to get her cat to safety before the dog started after it.

"Martha," she said to the little girl, "if you don't keep your dog from chasing my cat I'm going to hang it."

Little blonde Martha looked at her a minute then smiled broadly up at her: "Well, hang him by the tail, if you're going to hang him, not by the neck."—H. L.

The orchid looked as fresh as if she had just received it and everybody was curious as to how she managed to get it home and keep it fresh.

"I put it in the refrigerator after I got it home," she explained. "Yes," someone said, "but how did you get it home?"

"I brought it in my suitcase," and that amazed them.

"How?" they wanted to know. "Well," she laughed, "I made a little place for it by leaving some of my cosmetics and mouth

Helping Your Child's Skin Helps It Care for Itself

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.
WRITTEN for NEA

"Few artificial aids are necessary to maintain a healthy skin in infancy," writes Dr. Ernest Fairburn in the "English Practitioner."

Here are some of Dr. Fairburn's suggestions for helping the skin ("a remarkably adaptable organ") take care of itself:

Postpone bathing until the day after birth when the natural coating of fatty material (vernix caseosa) will disappear by itself.

For essential cleansing, use warm oil (peanut, olive, corn).

For the infant's soap, use the pure, unscented, nonmedicated soap that's used by other members of the household. Special soaps are not necessary. The addition of foreign substances, even antibacterial agents, may be harmful.

After bathing, rinse off every trace of soap.

As a dusting powder, again use a simple nonmedicated, unscented talc. Avoid those containing boric acid. Use the dusting powder sparingly. Remove excesses to prevent caking in creases.

Use light, soft materials for clothing and bedding. When washed, rinse thoroughly to remove all traces of soap.

Change diapers as soon as soiled. After removal of the soiled diaper, wash buttocks with warm water. Dry thoroughly. Apply the merest film of dusting powder. Remove excess especially from creases. Wash diapers with household soap. Rinse thoroughly to remove all traces of soap. Do not employ chemical antiseptics.

See that the baby's environment is neither too warm nor too humid. Overheating encourages excessive perspiration and maceration of the skin.

If the skin becomes rough, avoid the use of soap. Try substituting a sudsing detergent. Later, apply the simple lubricant to the skin (peanut, mineral, olive or corn oil).

Avoid making any applications to birthmarks. Most of them disappear after a time.

If there is a slight skin imperfection, protect the area with a simple, nonmedicated lubricant (albolene cream). If the imperfection fails to heal or becomes infected, better let your doctor find out why it's failed to heal and/or what's behind the infection before you complicate the condition with a chemical burn or an allergic reaction to something you've applied as a "shot in the dark."

All of which makes a lot of good sense to my way of thinking.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICE

by JAMES E. POLLARD

(Copyright 1960)

WHEN IS DELINQUENT?

Quirks in the law often confuse the layman. There are even times when the bar and the bench are puzzled. And not infrequently both attorneys and the courts differ in their interpretations of the law.

Technicalities may arise in the area of public notices, or legal advertising, but not often. One of these peculiar situations resulted when a professional man traded a building lot he owned on a piece of rental property. He had a clear title to the lot on which some assessments were due for street paving, sidewalks and similar improvements.

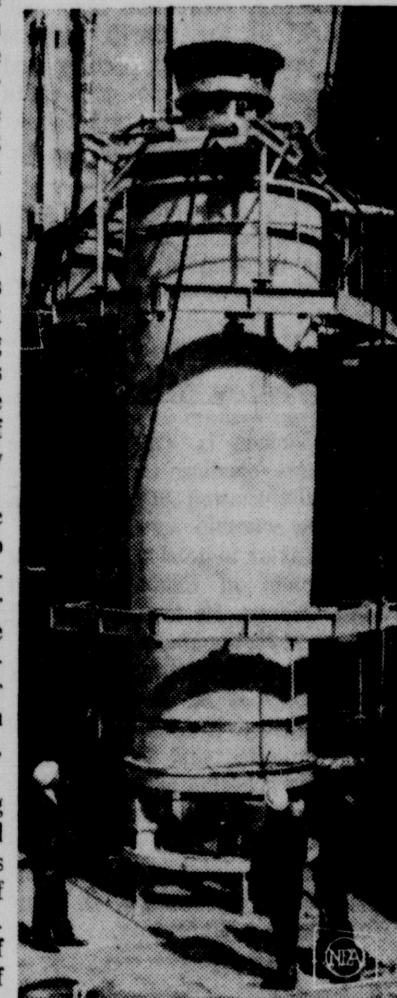

To make sure he was entirely in the clear, he wrote a check for the taxes then due as well as for the assessments to date. But he made the mistake of writing the check to the broker on his assurance that he would take care of the payment, instead of making it direct to the county treasurer.

To make a long story short, the broker unfortunately went into bankruptcy and the payee's money went "down the drain." After a while, in due course, his name was published in a local newspaper as a delinquent taxpayer although he was innocent. When some of his friends learned of it, they joshed him about it.

Still worse, after consulting several attorneys, he learned that because of the technicalities involved it would take an act of the legislature to clear his name. His friends believed his story, of course, but he suffered a lot of good natured kidding. Even this legal accident proved again the power of the public notice.

wash at the hotel. I took my shower cap and put a lot of wet facial tissue in the bottom of the cap. Then I put the orchid in the shower cap — and here it is. I wanted everybody to see it."

And any woman who has an orchid always wants everybody to see it. But most of them do not think up ways of keeping them fresh for a week. Especially when they have to bring them such a long distance in a suitcase at the cost of their cosmetics.—H. L.

And the 19th Hole . . ?

For decades our inventive geniuses have been taking the work out of golf. Lately they have been making good strides toward taking the work out of leisure.

Take golf. Playing 18 holes used to involve, inevitably, a lot of swinging plus a three-mile hike. Golf carts cut out the walking for those who can pay the transportation bill.

Now you don't even have to go out to the course. A new golf computer, matching a foreign compact car in cost, saves you the trouble. You can rig it up in the house, garage or back yard. You still have to swing and hit the ball against a net, but the magic box tells you how far the shot went and where.

Next stop, no doubt, will be to lie in bed and daydream your drives and putts while an electronic sensitizer attached to your cranium records the effort and reproduces it on a TV screen for you.

Computers Try This

Small manufacturers and tradesmen caught in the crush of big-business growth evidently don't blame it all on Wall Street and Washington.

A University of Alabama survey in that state disclosed a feeling among small businessmen that they were being hurt by overlapping state, county and local sales taxes.

Eight Alabama counties have county sales levies only. Five have both county and city taxes. In 27 there are city sales taxes but no county levies. In another 27, neither one exists.

Is that all clear to you men in the accounting department?

Armed Forces In Training; Leaders Talk

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Military forces of the United States and her allies are in training maneuvers in far flung quarters of the world while diplomats talk and the Communist crisis deepens.

But Washington officials say it is coincidence that the troubled time and training happen to come together, that big-scale military training must be and is planned long in advance.

In West Germany, three battle groups of the U.S. Army and tactical planes of the U.S. Air Force have just started a 10-day operation.

Up to 30,000 Army troops and a swarm of planes are in the midst of a two-week operation, called Swift Strike, to train and test out airborne and other techniques.

In South Korea—like West Germany, located on the perimeter of the Communist empire—2,000 troops of the 7th Infantry Division have teamed up with Republic of Korea units in "Operation Sharp Edge." A U.S. Navy amphibious force, including both landing craft and destroyers, is in the operation.

Heading down the west coast of South America is a Navy force of four destroyers, patrol planes and a submarine, beginning "Exercise Units II." Prime purpose of this exercise is to help train navies of eight South American countries in antisubmarine warfare. From time to time, some of the smaller nations in that area make searches for suspected Communist submarines. Exercise Units II will continue until early this winter.

A North Atlantic Treaty Organization training operation, Trade-wind Five, is under way in the western North Atlantic. This exercise, however, will be essentially a paper maneuver, to test out command functions. No big movement of ships is involved. Earlier this summer, U.S., Canadian and other ships held exercises in the same area.

Military exercises, because of planning requirements and budgets, are scheduled months and even years in advance.

The big-scale exercises of NATO and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization are planned a year or two ahead of time, officials say.

Other medium and big scale training operations, by individual countries and by allies, will be held during the next 12 months.

These will include at least three and possibly four overseas deployments of U.S. Army and Air Force outfits. These are intended primarily to train and test the readiness for quick deployment of troops to points thousands of miles away. The Army has announced three such overseas deployments will be held between now and next July.

Gate 3 At WAFB Is Closed Indefinitely For Internal Security

Effective at midnight Thursday Gate 3 at Whiteman AFB was closed for an indefinite period. The gate, commonly known as the south gate, was normally used by personnel traveling on state roads AB and D from the direction of Windsor.

The base information office said the closing of the gate was necessary to enable the Air Police to maintain internal security. The removal of the guards from the gate released more men for use in more sensitive areas. The gate was closed on order of Col. Willis F. Lewis, commander of the 340th Bomb Wing.

Personnel formerly using Gate 3 have been encouraged to use County Road D around the east perimeter of the base to Knob Noster, and enter the base through Gate 2.

Lady Lawyer Wins Point At Bar Meet

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A lady lawyer, who is determined not to be treated as Adam's rib, headed hom from the American Bar Association convention today with a victory-of-sorts.

Miss Dorothy Fooks of New York City, an ABA member of long-standing, had an idea to settle all those labor disputes that break out in the United States. Just set up labor courts with power to hand down decisions binding on all parties.

At the ABA's 84th annual convention this week she introduced a resolution for a study of the idea.

Now it is often difficult to get parties to a labor dispute to agree to voluntary arbitration, let alone compulsory arbitration. If anybody tried to set up labor courts with binding powers, the constitutional issues involved undoubtedly would be carried swiftly to the Supreme Court.

The powers-that-be in the ABA decided to throw the resolution out. But they reckoned without Miss Fooks. She arose in the ABA assembly Thursday to remark that resolutions introduced by three male delegates had been printed in the record for all delegates to read but hers hadn't.

ABA President Whitney North Seymour of New York explained that there was a shortage of space in the record.

"Then why wasn't mine printed, and the others omitted?" Miss Fooks asked.

She went on: "Some people say that woman comes from the rib of a man, and is therefore a side issue. But I don't want to be a side issue."

So instead of throwing the resolution out, the ABA voted to refer the resolution to a committee for study. Miss Fooks looked happy.

The robbery was discovered about 7:20 p.m. Thursday. Deputy Sheriff Jack Coutts made the investigation.

taken to overpower hijackers if they should threaten a steward or stewardess after failing to gain entry to the pilot's compartment. In the interest of public safety this cannot be divulged at this time.

Firearms used for game hunting or skeet shooting, normally permitted inside the airplane but in possession of the passenger-owner, no longer can be carried inside the plane. They must be checked for storage in the baggage compartment.

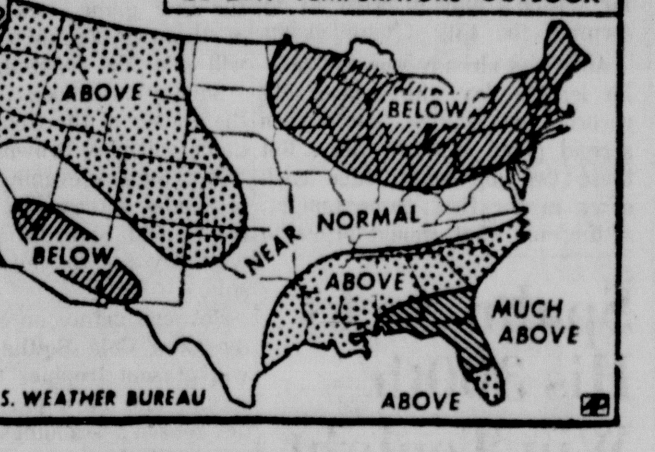

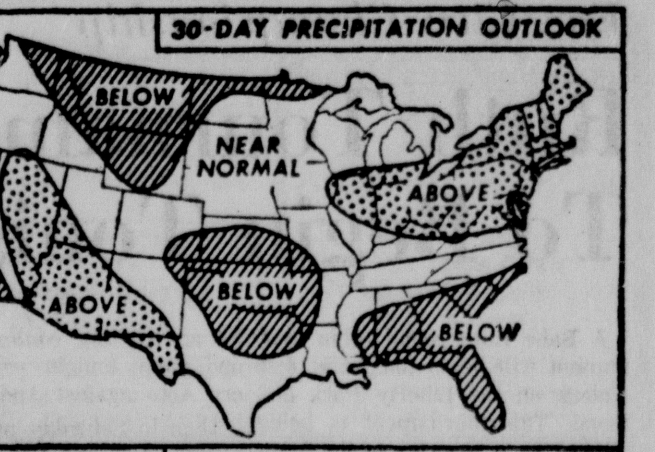

No searching, or screening, procedure has been instituted by the airlines. Careful search of the individual passenger before boarding the plane will not be started. However, trained personnel will be used to scrutinize each passenger, and if a suspicious bulge is detected, a search of the person will be requested. If the passenger refuses, his fare will be refunded and travel denied.

Plans for alternate, or emergency, landings have been laid in the event it is necessary to bring the airplane to the ground after a hijacker has been subdued.

Signs will be posted on all pilot compartment doors stating the cockpit will be locked during flight.

Only as a last resort will the airlines consider arming its own crews, a major airline spokesman said.

"It is too dangerous," he explained. "An airplane in flight is not the place for gunfire unless absolutely necessary."

Sorghum Grain Production Is Slated to Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sorghum grain production this year will total 455 million bushels, a 25 per cent drop from last year, the Agriculture Department forecast Thursday.

But it predicted the average yield per acre will be close to last year's record high.

Approximately 11.4 million acres were planted to sorghum grain, only about three-quarters as much as last year and the lowest since 1936. This reduced acreage resulted largely from the government feed grain program, the department said.

In Texas—where nearly half the crop is produced—moisture supplies are good and prospects for a bumper crop, the department said in its August crop report.

Sorghum made good growth last month in Oklahoma and New Mexico, the report said, but plantings were delayed in Kansas and Nebraska due to wet weather.

The department estimated production in Texas at 222,894,000 bushels, Kansas at 97,895,000, Nebraska at 59,314,000, Missouri at 13,005,000 and Oklahoma at 16,821,000.

Spahn Seeks His 300th Win Tonight

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Southpaw Warren Spahn, the Milwaukee Braves' ageless wonder who defies old man time, shoots for his 300th National League victory tonight in opposing the Chicago Cubs at County Stadium.

At an age rare among active players, Spahn, 40, will seek to become the 13th pitcher in major league history—and only the third left-hander—to reach the coveted 300 mark.

Since winning his 299th with a 2-1 decision at San Francisco a week ago, Spahn has been saved to make his history-making effort before home fans in the opener of a home stand.

Despite an 11-12 record, Spahn still ranks as a pitching ace. Many of his losses have been by narrow margins. He sports a creditable 3.40 earned run average, the same as when he posted a 21-10 record last year.

Spahn is in an entirely different position since the last pitcher to win 300 games 20 years ago. In 1941, Lefty Grove struggled to attain the goal while with the Boston Red Sox. Old Mose just made it. He failed to win another game and retired after that season.

Spahn, who won his first game for the Braves at the age of 25 when the club was in Boston in 1946, already holds a flock of records.

Grove, the only living member of the exclusive "300" set, reportedly is seriously ill and had to turn down an invitation by the Braves to be on hand for Spahn's initial crack at No. 300.

The other members of the "300" club are Cy Young (511), Walter Johnson (416), Christy Mathewson and Grover Cleveland Alexander (373), Kid Nichols (360), Jim Galvin (355), Tim Lincecum (345), John Clarkson (328), Eddie Plank (325), Mike Welch (316) and Charles Radbourne (308).

Young, Nichols, Galvin, Keefe, Clarkson, Welch and Radbourne did most or all of their pitching before the turn of the century. Plank, who played from 1901-17, is the only other left-hander to hit 300.

The biggest lefty winner in National League history, Spahn also holds the major league record for the most 20-victory seasons by a southpaw. He reached that mark for the 11th time last season with the first no-hitter of his career, a brilliant 15-strikeout performance against Philadelphia. He posted another no-hitter against San Francisco earlier this year.

Spahn, a native of Buffalo, N.Y., who now is an off-season rancher in Hartshorne, Okla., came up in the Braves in 1942. He appeared in only four games without being involved in a decision and then went into the Army. After three years, during which he was wounded, decorated and given a battlefield commission in Europe, he rejoined the Braves in 1946.

Southpaw's World In Major Leagues

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's a southpaw's world at the moment in major league baseball. Left-hander Whitey Ford, with his usual help from left-hander Luis Arroyo, has become the first 20-game winner of the season, and tonight left-hander Warren Spahn shoots for a rare 300th victory.

Spahn, pitching in his 17th season at 40, goes for the big one tonight for the Milwaukee Braves against the Chicago Cubs. If the National League's premier left-hander gets it, he'll be only the 13th pitcher ever to win 300 in the majors.

The last to do it was Lefty Grove, in 1941 with the Boston Red Sox. Eddie Plank is the only other southpaw 300-game winner.

The other 300-game winners, topped by Cy Young's 511, are Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Kid Nichols, Jim Galvin, Tim Keefe, John Clarkson, Mike Welch and Charles Radbourne.

Ford, who has a 153-61 record for 10 years in the majors, won 20 for the first time with a 3-1 decision over the Los Angeles Angels Thursday that kept the New York Yankees three games ahead of second-place Detroit in the American League race.

It was Whitey's 14th consecutive victory, tying the Yankee record set in 1904 by Jack Chesbro. It also marked the 16th time in Ford's 28 starts this season that Arroyo has trudged in from the bullpen.

The Ford-Arroyo combination has become such a ritual that one New York paper, The Mirror, headlined it: "Luis' Ford Wins 20th."

While the Yankees pushed their longest winning streak of the year through eight games, Detroit kept the pace by beating the Chicago White Sox 3-2. Baltimore beat Kansas City 8-0 and Boston defeated Minnesota 3-2 in the other AL games scheduled.

The St. Louis Cardinals won eight in a row for the first time this year with a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh in the only NL game scheduled.

Ford (20-2), last a loser on June 29 at Boston, allowed eight of the Angels' nine hits before giving way to the heat and Arroyo in the eighth inning. It was the fourth victory Arroyo has saved for Ford, and he has been the finishing pitcher in six others.

Bobby Richardson, Yogi Berra and Bill Skowron homered for the Yankee runs off Jim Donohue (4-5), with Berra's fourth-inning shot breaking a 1-1 tie as the Angels failed to win any of their nine games at Yankee Stadium in the season series.

The Tigers made it eight out of 10 with a three-game sweep at Chicago. A double by Norm Cash and Chico Fernandez' single off Juan Pizarro (7-5) broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning. Don Mossi (13-2) was the winner, going all the way although allowing 11 hits.

Milt Pappas (8-6) blanked the A's on six hits. He breezed after the Birds scored five runs in the first inning, two on a single by Whitey Herzog, against Bill Kunkel (2-2). Dave Philley of Baltimore set an AL record with his 21st pinch hit of the season, topping the record set in 1936 by Parke Coleman of the St. Louis Browns with 20.

A third-inning double by Frank Malzone wrapped it up for the Red Sox as Tracy Stallard (1-1) won his first in the majors. Al Schroll (0-2) was the loser.

The Cardinals beat the Bucs with an unearned run in the seventh inning on Dick Stuart's error. Hanging the loss on Earl Francis (1-5), Ray Sadecki (10-5) was the winner. He gave up eight hits, all singles except one—Bob Clemente's ninth-inning home run.

Dascoli Is Fired By Giles

NL Chief Says Recent Remarks Cause for Action

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Controversial umpire Frank Dascoli was fired Thursday by National League President Warren Giles in an action unprecedented in modern-day major league baseball.

A spokesman for the National League said he could recall no instance of an outright dismissal of an umpire during the season play.

Giles said Dascoli's dismissal came about because recent remarks attributed to the umpire "makes his continued employment incompatible with the best interest of our umpiring staff, our office and the league."

Back in 1952 umpire Douglas (Scotty) Robb quit after it was reported he was fined more than then St. Louis Cardinal manager Eddie Stanky and Solly Hemus, then a Cardinal player, after a ruckus over a called third strike on Hemus. Robb later joined the American League.

Hemus also has figured in Dascoli's troubles.

Giles made it plain there was no question of Dascoli's integrity or impartiality on the field.

Dascoli was registered at a Cincinnati hotel Thursday night but it declined to give his room number and he could not be located in the usual baseball hangouts in the downtown area.

Dascoli, a resident of Danielson, Conn., joined the National League umpiring staff in 1948. He has been a subject of controversy among players, managers, fans and league officials many times during his tenure.

Several weeks ago he and Hemus, since ousted manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, got into a dispute before a television audience. Hemus called Dascoli "arrogant." Dascoli called Hemus "a bushy." Both were reprimanded.

Last week, columnist Murray Olderman of the Newspaper Enterprise Association wrote a story quoting Dascoli as saying "games have gotten completely out of hand because he (Giles) refuses to back us up."

Olderman quoted Dascoli as saying he would quit at the end of this season.

Last weekend, Giles and Dascoli went into another of their many conferences here and a statement was issued in which Dascoli was quoted as saying he denied ever making such statements.

It was learned that Olderman later told Giles' office the name of the restaurant where the conversation took place and gave further details. In New York, Olderman said, "Dascoli made every statement which I attributed to him."

Giles' dismissal statement said his (Dascoli's) integrity and impartiality on the field have not been, nor are they now, questioned and in no way contribute to this decision."

A recent poll of sports writers, coaches and managers, by Sporting News, a baseball publication, had Dascoli voted as "most sarcastic," "quickest to eject" and "worst grandstander."

Dascoli broke into umpiring in 1946 in the Eastern Shore League. In his major league career he has worked in three World Series.

Lions and Rotary Win Thursday Night Games

Lions eliminated Post 16 from the Major League double elimination tournament in the first game at Little League Stadium Thursday night by a score of 8-7.

Post 16 jumped off to a two run lead in the first, picked up two more in the second and three in the fourth, but couldn't hold on when Lions drove in five big runs in the fourth and three in the fifth to win the game. Pate came on in relief and was the winning pitcher. Jim Vinson took the loss. Vansell and Vinson of Post 16 both hit home runs.

Rotary defeated Optimist 12-8 in a real thriller in the second game. Rotary jumped off to a three run lead in the first and held it until the third when Chuck Caravia blasted a dead center home run with three on and Optimist brought in another run to take the lead. Rotary came back in the top of the fourth with two runs to tie up the game. Optimist picked up three in the bottom of the fourth, and that ended Optimist scoring. Rotary scored one in the fifth and six in the sixth to win. Herrick was the winning pitcher, and Pingolt was the loser.

Optimist copped the "C" team City Championship and the season championship by beating Adco 6-5 at Housel Park Thursday night. Optimist finished the entire season without a loss, winning nine in season play and two in tournament play. Little League President Ralph Hamlin presented the winners trophies after the game.

Friday night at Little League Stadium will see the final games of the "B" team playoffs. Rotary will play Post 16 in the first game and the winner of that game will play the Jaycees in the second game for the "B" championship. The "A" teams will play at Housel Park Friday night. The first game will be Lions vs. Jaycees and the second will feature Elks vs. Moose.

Cards Stretch Winning Streak; KC Bows Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Cardinals stretched their winning streak to eight games Thursday night, their longest since 1957, by edging the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

The Orioles drubbed Kansas City 8-0 at Baltimore.

Ray Sadecki pitched and batted St. Louis to the victory. The 20-year-old hurler became the first Cardinal pitcher to win 10 games as the Cards attained a tie for fourth place with Milwaukee.

Errors by Don Hoak and Dick Stuart each contributed a run to the Cardinal cause.

Roberto Clemente, the league's leading hitter, swatted his 19th homer of the season for the Pirates.

The Orioles jumped on Kansas City starter Bill Kunkel for four hits and five runs in the first inning.

The victory went to Milt Pappas, who scattered six hits.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: School will be starting in a few weeks. I would like to get this settled in advance.

Our 16-year-old daughter flunked gym last year because she refused to take showers. She explained that the shower curtains don't cover the stalls and sometimes it is embarrassing. I've told her that she is right and as far as I'm concerned she doesn't have to take showers.

The school authorities say no showers, no credit. Are we living under a dictatorship or what? I think our schools should encourage modesty among young girls. Please print your answer. I expect to fight it out with the school in September.—MICHIGAN MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Your daughter should adhere to the rules and take showers after gym class. What you call modesty is an unhealthy feeling about herself which has implications of greater importance than whether or not she flunks gym.

Please, for her sake, reverse your stand and urge her to do as the other girls do.

Dear Ann: This problem is one I always thought happened to someone else. For the past ten months I've been seeing my boss secretly. He is married and has a family.

It started with a little night work, an innocent drink, a ride home, and you know the rest.

Last week he called me in for dictation and said coldly, "We've someone else. They usually do.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say something to the wife who complained about his husband's cousin—the construction worker. I'm a construction worker, too, and I know the story from the other side.

All my relatives would love to have a garage added to their home, or a cement wall, or a new sidewalk, or a patio, or a sun room, but they just can't afford it. When they finally decide to "go ahead" they ask me to do the job because I'm a construction worker and can get the materials for next to nothing—they think.

In the middle of the job they change the plans to include more materials and labor but the price is supposed to stay the same. They offer to help with the work and say they will hire some guys, but the guys never show up. As for them—after two Saturdays of helping they decide that they can't spend any more time on the project because they have to go out and make time and a half—BEEN THERE.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to

Executives Fail to See Greater Portion of Mail

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Your boss may think the avalanche of mail grows more menacing every day. But chances are he doesn't see half of it—especially if he is the top boss.

Also, the bigger the company the smaller the percentage of the mail that reaches the chief executive's desk. And of the mail he does handle the greater is the proportion that has little direct connection with the firm's business.

Secretaries of big corporations can confirm this. Also they can tell you that a large part of the paper hitting the "in" and "out" boxes is of the interoffice memo variety or the letter from an company divisions in other cities.

As a man rises up the executive ladder the more likely he is to tell his subordinates what he has to say by phone but to ask them for written memos.

Secretaries note, however, that top men like to do as much as possible of the firm's business with other chief executives by direct contact, either by phone or in person.

Interviews with 200 executives, and many of their secretaries, of companies of all sizes in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles by research consultants for an office equipment maker, the American Photocopy Equipment Co., Evanston, Ill., show that usually the smaller company chief executive handles a greater proportion of the firm's mail personally than does his counterpart in the big corporation.

That is because in the smaller company the top man is more concerned with the day to day business judgments. In the larger firm these problems automatically are addressed to division or department heads—or are forwarded there by the secretary of the big boss. Some companies estimate that as high as 75 per cent of the mail addressed to their top executive never reaches him—nor does he know about it.

Of the mail that does cross his desk, secretaries cite three basic types: 1. The significant involves a policy decision or specific business action. 2. The promotional is aimed at influencing his thinking either for present or future action. 3. The nonbusiness kind, which increases in proportion to the prestige of the man or of his company, concerns such things as organizations, charitable activities, or relationships with other executives in industrial, political or civic enterprises.

One executive estimates that about 65 per cent of his mail doesn't deal directly with his own company's business.

Those Who Inherit Cash Aren't Always So Lucky

NEW YORK (AP)—If you have not inherited any money lately, count yourself lucky.

You may be better off. Most of us tend to think the other way. Few of us shrink in horror from the prospect of being enriched by the passing of a distant relative or, for that matter, a total stranger.

It is a heartwarming hope to us all that somewhere, somehow, someone has mentioned us favorably—in his will, and that in the fullness of time the money will drop from the sky like a ripe plum. Even orphans, gypsies and Bowerly bums cling fondly to this hope.

Stork Race Delayed By Auto Wreck

By RAY KOHN
Associated Press Staff Writer

You can't win 'em all, especially when racing the stork.

Miami, Fla. police were forgiving when Isaac Reed drove his car smack into the rear of one ahead. Isaac, driving his wife, Ethel, to the hospital, had been tossing frequent glances into the back seat because it was a tossup whether the stork would wait.

After the crash came the cops. By that time the Reeds had a new daughter. The patrolman did not give Reed a traffic ticket.

In appreciation, Reed said, he's naming the baby "Charity."

Sporting Gesture
In the Bronx, two radio car patrolmen halted motorist Victor Torres and gave him a ticket for running a red light. At the same moment a 50-pound chunk of concrete was dropped from the roof of a five-story building. The concrete landed in the rear deck of the patrol car, inches from the men, but no one was hurt.

The policemen ran to the roof of the building. They said a slab of stonework had been removed from the rear of the roof, was carried to the front, and flung at them.

Torres, meanwhile, nobly called headquarters for more police help.

Towering Problem
When you gaze upon the leaning tower of Pisa in Italy, it appears about to fall down of its own accord. Now somebody threatens to blow it up. As a result of an anonymous letter, police doubled their guard around the ancient structure.

Husband Seeks Alimony From Estranged Wife

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"When a wife earns more money than her husband, he should be granted alimony," a lawyer for unemployed actor Chester Marshall, 29, told a Superior Court commissioner.

But Commissioner George M. Dell Thursday denied Marshall's petition for $613 monthly alimony from his estranged wife, actress Karen Sharpe, 27, and said that Marshall is "perfectly capable of supporting himself."

Marshall's attorney, Irving A. Kanarek, had argued that a woman's present status of equality before the law makes her subject to the same alimony requirements now "enjoyed by men."

A divorce trial for the couple is scheduled for Sept. 19.

Hen That Laid Only Curved Eggs Is Dead

POOLE, England (AP)—Adelaide, the hen that laid curved eggs, is dead.

Between 1957 and her death this week Adelaide laid hundreds of eggs, every one of them as curved as a banana.

Her product amazed naturalists and won her fan mail from all over Britain and the United States.

She made television appearances and collected more than 1,000 pounds—$2,800—for charity.

Adelaide died quietly on the nest in this Dorset town after laying an egg—curved as always.

Bob Horton Is Quitting

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When a successful TV series star begins to bleat about boredom and the fear of type-casting, he probably wants more money.

At least, the symptoms usually disappear the moment he gets a better contract or a piece of the show.

Thus, when "Wagon Train's" co-star, Robert Horton, started to make the usual throaty growls last season, nobody took him quite seriously. They tried the usual antidotes, including a share of the show. But Horton surprised them.

"I think five years in one role is enough," Horton said Thursday between scenes on the "Wagon Train" set. "I've done lots of other things outside the show, so that type-casting isn't my problem. I just think that there are other things to be done, and other roles I'm interested in playing.

"But I'm not unhappy about 'Wagon Train.' I wasn't a Western actor and I was thrown against Ward Bond, the epitome of the Western actor, in this series. I consider that I was able to develop an interesting and different character in it. But now I have other things to do—and I turned down part ownership of the show to do them."

So this will be, honest and truly, the last year of scouting for Flint

McCullough. And if the wheels keep turning for a 1962-63 season, the train's chief scout will be a character called Duke Shannon. Scott Miller, blond, 6 feet four and a basketball star at the University of California at Los Angeles, has already been chosen for the part. This season, Horton's last, Miller is being groomed to leap into the empty saddle.

"It's a lucky break for me," the young actor conceded, "but it is a little scary, too. After all, I haven't had too much acting experience."

That, of course, is nonsense: before Scott got into TV he had the title role in a motion picture: "Tarzan, the Ape Man," and everybody knows the dramatic demands made on actors in that legendary part.

Television Watching Missed Most By The Young Star of TV's 'Beaver'

By JERRY MATHERS
Written for The Associated Press

One of the things I miss most because of my television job is watching television. My mother makes me go to bed at 8:30 on Sunday through Thursday nights because I have to get up at 6:30 in the morning on weekdays to get ready for work. This means I have to skip a lot of night-time shows.

I only tune in "Leave It to Beaver" once in a while. I already know the script and how each show ends.

I always feed my pets and play with them a little while in the morning, before my mother drives me to the studio. One is a German shepherd named Ron Ton Ton. He's a cousin, or something, of Rin Tin Tin. I also have a rat who likes raisins.

We leave for the studio about 8 o'clock. Sometimes we take my 10-year-old sister, Susie, and my little brother, Jimmie, and a couple of neighborhood kids to school on the way.

The guy who puts my makeup on is named Jack. Whenever he sees me, he goes "phew" and holds his nose. That's because I rub after shave lotion on my face in the morning, the way Dad does. I was 13 in June, but I don't have any whiskers yet.

School is held in a little shack inside the sound stage near the set. On days when other kids are working in the show, I have a lot of company in school. Other days it's just me and the teacher. She's nice but I like it better when other kids are there.

We have to be in school three hours a day, but it lasts almost the whole day because we go back and forth to the set whenever they need us for a scene. At lunchtime, all the kids eat in a big table at the studio commissary and horse around a lot.

If there's any time left after lunch, I go back to the stage and play basketball with Tony Dow and some of the other kids in the show and the guys in the crew. We have a basket hung up on one of the walls.

We quit work at 5 o'clock, and I go home with my mother. She has to stay at the studio with me all day. Before dinner, I play ball with the kids in the neighborhood or maybe in hot weather go for a swim in somebody's pool. After dinner, I watch TV, build model planes or do some homework.

At 8, my mother helps me study my lines for the next day, and then I go to bed. But on Friday and Saturday, I stay up till 9:30.

We rehearse on Monday and Tuesday, which means I get home early. It's sort of lonesome, though. My sister and all the other kids are in school. I just goof around with Ron Ton Ton and go straighten up my room. My mother makes me do that every day.

I have to do some work around the yard, too. But I get paid for this. Sometimes when I need more money, I can mooch it from Dad.

One of the things I like to do best is talk about cars with the older kids. I'd like to get a beat up old Ford and fix it up myself so it would be all ready when I'm 16 and old enough to drive.

I like fishing, too. At the studio they have some little lakes, where they shoot the show sometimes, and the guys in the crew and I always fish in them when there's time. We catch mudsuckers. We go real fishing with Dad on weekends when he has time.

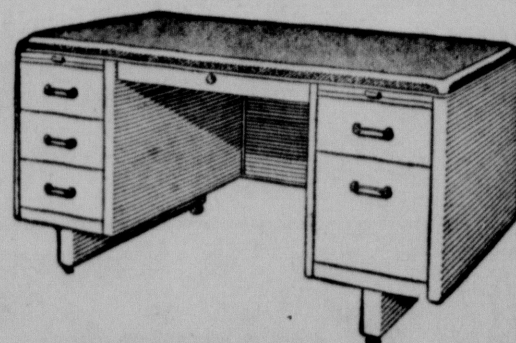

A lot of times, though, I'm scared to leave home. My brother Jimmy sneaks into my room and plays with my model airplanes. When I find one busted, I know he's been there. I keep telling him to cut it out, but he's 6 and doesn't know any better.

Cary Grant Making His 60th Movie

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cary Grant is making his 60th movie. Like the majority of the others, it's a comedy.

Still an also-ran in the Oscar derby, he admitted he could probably garner an academy nomination with a drama. But Cary is more interested in box office gold than in plated statuettes. And he likes comedies.

"It's good for an audience to laugh or cry, because either one is a release," he commented. "I happen to like to hear people laugh. There is no more pleasant sound to me than to go into the Radio City Music Hall and hear that immense place filled with laughter."

The new comedy is called "Touch of Mink," and it combines him for the first time with Doris Day—"an excellent comedienne and there aren't many around any more."

Cary has constructed the project with infinite care, as always. Though he never takes producer's credit, his fine hand is evident in all the preparations.

Cary was having a rare day off from shooting. He roamed his office and commented on film comedy.

"Comedy is much more of a challenge," said he. "A drama can be greeted by silence and still be successful. A comedy must draw laughter. And you never know if it will until you are all finished and it is too late to change it."

Despite the complex nature of the Cary Grant comedy, the premise is simple, he said.

"You take a man who seems to have every advantage and you place him in an untenable position," he explained. "The laughter comes from audience's reaction to his discomfort and their delight that it is happening to him, and not them."

Soviet Pilot Had Trouble Telling Date

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov, smart operator though he is, must have been hard pressed to know just what day of the week it was during his flight around the world.

His whizzing capsule played hop-scotch with the earth's time during the 25-hour flight — with Sunday becoming Saturday beneath Titov, then Sunday again, then Monday, then back to Sunday again, and finally, Monday once more for Titov's triumphant homecoming in the Soviet Union.

These seeming tricks of time are due to the fact that in his 18,000 m.p.h., 17-orbit flight starting last Sunday at 9 a.m. Moscow time, Titov crossed both the International dateline plus the earth's imaginary "Midnight Meridian" 17 times.

So says Wellman Chamberlain of the National Geographic Society, who has compiled a unique log of Titov's flight, utilizing a special world globe equipped with measuring tools to enable users to plot graphically the courses of satellites and rockets.

Chamberlain said that in terms of the "local times" for different parts of the earth crossed by the orbit of the Vostok II spaceship, Titov:

1. During both of his first two 88-minute whirls around the world figuratively flew back into Saturday, the day before he left, but quickly got back into Sunday each time.

2. During the rest of his trip, he periodically flew from Sunday into Monday and back again—though finally winding up in Moscow on Monday.

3. If he had stayed aloft another seven hours, he would have run into Tuesday over part of the world, though still landing in the Soviet Union on Monday.

The factors involved in these gymnastics of time and Titov are these:

1. The International Dateline — that's the meridian extending essentially from pole to pole across the Pacific Ocean. When you cross it, going west to east in a ship, an airplane or a spaceship, you "lose a day."

2. The "Midnight Meridian—an imaginary semicircle in the heavens which determines local midnight for the particular parts of the earth passing beneath it as the planet constantly rotates in a west-to-east direction. Thus, when you pass it, going in the right direction, you "gain a day."

Just to give you one example:

In Titov's first whirl around the earth, with take-off time in Moscow at 9 a.m. Sunday, he crossed the International Dateline west of Hawaii at 7:15 p.m. Saturday, local time. So now he was back into Saturday.

But when in this same orbit he passed high over the Davis Strait in the South Pacific—the strait that separates the tip of South America from the antarctic's Palmer Peninsula—he also crossed the Midnight Meridian.

So, he was back again into Sunday.
